Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 says the "micro-cavities" having the width or diameter of 1mm. This renders the claim indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Burkett et al (Us 6,383,608). Burkett teaches a foam body structure comprising a plurality of micro-cavities of preselected width and of preselected depth less than the thickness of the foam body structure on the outer surface of the foam body structure (figure 18, column 4, lines 25-32). The cavities along the opposite sides of the body foam shown in Figure 14 read on the limitations of claim 4. Burkett teaches a foam body structure comprising a plurality of grooves extending down for a depth greater than 50% of a vertical thickness of the foam body (column 4, lines 55-58). Burkett teaches the cavity having a width from 3/16 to 1/8 inch (column 12, lines 59-65). Burkett discloses a suitable diameter range for the largest openings of the cavities is dependent on the foam material and foam body dimension. In the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the cavity having a diameter instantly claimed as dependent upon the foam material and foam body dimension since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

The recitations "for enclosing or supporting hot operation machinery" and "for mitigating ignition of a flammable liquid that comes into contact with the structural member" are intended use limitations. It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed structure element is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed structural element from a prior art foam body structure satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987).

Since Applicant states the 'acceptable cavity ... sizes in contemplation of the invention fall in the range of up to a few millimeters in width or diameter and depth for most flammable liquids...' (page 7, lines 2-5), it is held that the cavities of Burkett would inherently be capable of minimizing the seepage of at least one flammable liquid into the holes because of the surface tension of that liquid.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US 6,322,873 is related to an insulation pack having fire retardant cavity.
7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
